There have been numerous notices to the same effect in other parts of the country, including various branches of industry, but those given above are sufficient to show the tendency towards increased wages under this Democratic tainff. The woolen mills, the iron mills, the cotton mills and their affiliated industries are running to supply orders. The rise in the price of labor are indications of permanent improvement.

Contrast this state of affairs with that which existed under the McKingley taining the financial policy of President Cleveland and approximg his efforts to maintain a safe, sound and stable currency. ESTIMATES

The Directors of Poor had a meeting the other day and gave attention to bus ness Though they have had a number of meetings since they were number of meetings since they were ors to erect buildings for holding elections and storing road machinery, etc. only one about which the Star and untimel could say anything with safety. "The Steward is to make monthly estimates," says the Star, "of the supplies needed, and expenditures are to be limited to the estimate." How the making of estimates is to end of which is unprotected by a fender, help the tax-payers is not stated, but and making the penalty for violation of the Star has to make all it can out of the provisions of the act $25 a day for small things, and uses this action on each car so run the part of the Directors to show that they are doing things in a business

The making of estimates is but a small matter compared with the commission of a finable and impeachable offense, or compared with determined refusal to perform what was promised for the party, or compared with the faithlessness of the S(a) in publishing columns of questionable statements before election and not publishing even the news after election because of differences between itself and the Board, or compared with the publishing of inentionally misleading statements to the effects that salaries were reduced when they were not. We read in the Star sometime ago that all salaries of the Alms-house officers were reduced, except the Clerk's, when, in fact, the Directors' salaries are the same as before. It makes no difference by whom the Directors' pay is fixed, it was not reduced as the Star would rule ate. The Star may not feel well, politically, over the Alms-house administration may not have been disposed heretofore to say much and may not feel like it hereafter, yet it has no one to blame but itself, for it alone was responsible for the promises made which it ought

This little making of estimates recieves exactly four times as much notice in the Star as did a meeting at which salaries were reduced. That meeting vas the most interesting news, but it did not suit the Star, and so got very little notice, irrespective of the fact that the people wanted to know all about it. The Star does not seem to publish the news, and makes some very rash claims. What our opponent does well we will commend-therein we differ from the Star-but we will not forget that the Republicans went into the campaign last fall for votes only The people of tins county clearly saw it but believed then in the Star somewhat. Its best course now is not to get ugly, but to redeem itself and its party as best it can, but let the Directors do something of consequence in the way of getting rid of unnecessary others, as was prom By this latter course it will do the Income Returns in This District. Collector Shearer on Tuesday last an nounced that 873 persons in the Ninth made returns that their incomes exceed $3,500, while 400 others swore that they $3,500, while 400 others swore that they were not subject to the moome tax. This district is a big one, comprising the counties of Lancaster, Dauphin, York, Adams, Cumberland, Perry, Snyder, Juneata, Miffin, Huntingdon, Blair, Bedford, Franklin, Fulton and Lebanon The total amount returned has not yet been computed, nor the number from each county classified, but 873 returns subject to taxation are regarded as remarkably small for a big and wealthy district like this. Of the fifteen counties Lancaster is the richest, and pays state tax alone on $22,000.

Weeds and Soil Renewal. The Pig Weed Well Worth Plowing Under-Lime the Cheapest and Beat of Ren-ovators—Daubling the Yields,

Weeds are, says the Phila. Record nature's remedies for renewing soils, and the reason that weeds seem to thrive well when ordinary cultivated crops fail is that they are better adapted to the soils and are more capable of securing a portion of their nourishment from the air in the form of nitrogen and carbon than some other plants. It is true that certain kinds of weeds will grow only or fertile soils, but there are others which appear on lands that are almost barren, and such weeds slowly render the soi more fertile by assisting in the formation of humus, their decay adding to the available matter in the soil and fitting is for some weed that will thrive if th soil is a little better in that respect, one kind following another until the soil is gradually changed to a more fertile condition. Nature seems determined shade the soil whenever it is possible to do so, and it is doubtful if there is any soil, no matter how poor, that does no have some vegetable growth on its aurface. In that respect farmers have gained knowledge from nature's teachings, for they know that land which contains sod, or which has been covered with plants that have shaded the soil, is more fertile than when such land has been exposed to the direct rays of the sun. Moisture, air and warmth conduce t the formation of humus in the soil, and especially when vegetable matter has been turned under. The roots of weeds bring up plant food from the subsoil, and also disintegrate the inert substances, leaving their roots in the soil to decay, and covering the ground when the frosts of winter cut them down. They will render much better service however, if turned under in a green condition. Some of the weeds are very rich in fertilizing material. The pig weed contains, in 1,000 pounds, over 30 pounds of nitrogen, 35 pounds of potash, and 12 pounds of phosphoric acid, which is quite a large proportion, excelling leaves, muck, cottonseed hulls and even tobacco refuse (except in pot ash), which makes the pig weed a very valuable crop for plowing under, especially when green. Other weeds contain nearly the same proportions of substances, and can be utilized with advantage as green manurial crops when they reach the stage of growth at which

There are better crops to plow under vation prevents the weeds from taking ion and crowding the crops. Renovation of the soil can be effected by the use of fertilizers which will permit even the poorest of soils to grow green crops and thus assist in forming humus in the soil. The cheapest and best of chemical changes in the soil, and fits it for plants that would otherwise not thrive. Thorough cultivation and drainage enables the roots of plants to extend deeper into the soil and spread over a larger area of surface. If weeds insist on appearing, the best mode of utilizing them is to turn them under which adds something to the soil while protecting the crop.

Gardening by Horsepawer. It Pays When Prices are High for Labo and Low for Produce.

An exchange says: "To grow garden stuff in sufficient quantity is a difficult task if wrong methods are practiced. If correst methods are adopted, it is a comparatively easy matter. In this day of progress a garden so small it cannot be worked by horsenower is ineveneshle a a farm where land is plenty. It requires about one whole day for a man to work over one of the little square gardens and put everything in good shape. With a horse and cultivator he can work over a half acre plot in less than two hours and do the work better. Besides following the cultivator is easy compared with the back breaking process of hand hoeing, "In these times of bigh prices for farm labor and low prices for farm produce certainly no one can afford to spend much time beeing in the garden when the work can be done better and ten times as fast when the help of a horse which would otherwise be idle. Most garden crops can be successfully cultivated by horsepower and by Plant, Jr., horse hoe better than with the hand hoe, writes a correspondent of Practical Farmer, who says: Of course there are some crops that in order to save ground should be planted too close to be tended with a horse, but even then can be cultivated almost entirely without the old ashioned hoeing. If you are able to afford it, there are a number of most excellent wheel hoes now on the market, and nearly all of them will do splendid work, and do it very rapidly. If you are not greatly overburdened with wealth. you can get along without going to this expense. If you will watch the columns of the farm papers, you will probably soon see a drawing of a homemade device that will do grand work, and the cost will be trifling.

But the main point is that nearly all the cultivation in the garden ought to be done by horsepower and as little as possible by hand. Lav off a small plot to be used for close planted crops and tend them with some kind of wheel hoe. But plant the main crops wide enough to becultivated with the horse hoe. And let the plot of ground devoted to garden vegetables be liberal. Thus home gar dening will become a pleasure rather than an irksome task. The health of the family will be the better for the supply YORK STREET, GETTYSBURG, PA. of wholesome, nutritious food.

Cows in Deadly Combat.

A remarkable fight between two cows occurred last Tuesday on a farm in New Jersey. The cows had always had an inexplicable hatred of each other from calfbood up and always fought at every opportunity. They were evenly match ed, however, and the contests never resulted seriously. Last Tuesday the superintendent of the farm noticed that the cows were fighting again, but thought nothing of it, excepting, of course, that the usual result would follow.

Some time later he chanced by the barnyard again, and saw that the animals, now thoroughly infuriated, were fighting harder than ever, and that it was evidently a struggle to the death. They could not be separated. Back and forth they surged over the yurd, neither gaining an inch toward victory. Finally they unlocked horns, and instantly the mighty bodies elashed together again. This was the end. One of the animals was disembowled and she fell dend. The victor torn and bleeding herself, bellowed over her dying combatant and triumphantly walked away.

Delicious Wagtes for Dessert .- One half pound of flour sifted three times, one teaspoonful of baking powder, four eggs, whites and yolks, beaten separately to the utmost; four lumps of sugar rasped on lemon peel; enough sweet cream to enable you to have a smooth batter for wasses. Bake in small round or square walle-irons, and as fast as they bake lay them on a hot dish to keep warm. When all are baked spread with apricot jam, pile in a pyramid and serve.

Caffee Cake.-For coffee cake beat well together one-half cupful of butter and one-half cupful of sugar; and onehalf cupful of molasses and the same amount of strong coffee. Then stir in cupful of stoned raisins, one-half teaspeonful of soda and flour to thicken. Gems for Breakfast .- For one dozen gems use one pint of milk, an egg, a ant of flour and a half a teaspoonful of salt. Beat the egg light, add the milk and salt to it and beat gradually into the flour. Put it into hot gem pans and bake twenty minutes.

Liver Total.—One capful cold boiled or stewed liver, half cupful brown gravy of any sort. Enough mustard, salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce to sea son the liver highly, several squares of outtered toast. Rub the liver smooth with back of a spoon, add the seasoning. heat to boiling with the gravy, and heap or spread upon the toast. Set in the oven two minutes before sending to table.

Milk Porridge.-Mix one tablespoon of flour to a poste with cold water, stir it into one-half a pint of boiling water and let it boil twenty minutes. Then add a teacupful of milk and a pinch of salt. Let it boil up and serve. Stewed Cheese,-Put into a bowl six ounces of cheese grated, two eggs, an ounce of butter, a small cup of milk, and beat all together. Put into a small baking dish and bake a light brown. It should be of the consistency of custard. Current Jumbles .- One-fourth pound of flour, one pound of white sugar, threefourths of a pound of butter, five eggs, one gill of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, two cups of currants, flavor with mace and nutmeg, and, if you like, a glass of wine. Drop the mixture on pans and bake.

Horseradish Sauce for Boiled Mutton ar Roast Beef.—One wineglassful of good cream, a teaspoonful of mustard, a teaspoonful of horseradish, half a tumbler of vinegar, saltspoonful of salt, mix all together thoroughly and heat mix all together thoroughly and heat gently, but use care not to boil, and Parlor & Cook Stoves serve at once, with hot or cold meat, as
